

Landowner Services

According to a recent Texas Department of Agriculture study, each hog is responsible for $50 to $500 in damage to agriculture and wildlife habitat annually.

- 3.4 million hogs in TX – largest feral hog population in the US; numbers on the rise
- Coyotes account for most harm to rancher goat and sheep populations
- Other predators (bobcats, mountain lions, raccoons, etc.) add to property loss
- Predators negatively impact ranch revenues that depend on wildlife hunting leases
- Employed correctly, helicopter hunting is very effective in selectively removing non-endangered invasive species
